

The Herald and News

Entered at the Postoffice at Newberry, S. C., as 2nd class matter.
E. H. AULL, EDITOR.

Tuesday, June 6, 1916.

We notice now and then that the papers state that towns like Greenville pass an ordinance occasionally. Wonder if Newberry has a license ordinance. And if the ordinance to require automobiles to stop at certain street crossings provides that the car shall stop after crossing or if it shall stop on the street that it is crossing. We have observed that very frequently the stop is made right in the center of the street that the car is crossing. Well, we suppose that council takes it for granted that any driver of a car would have enough sense not to stop on the center of the street he is crossing, because if he did and there was a car coming down the street he was crossing it would then give him a center drive. In this day we have to tell people just what to do and just how to do it by some sort of law or statute.

It seems now that the road from Spartanburg to Clinton is going to be built. Newberry was invited to send a representative to the preliminary meeting in the interest of the building of this road which was held at Cross Anchor a short time ago. The editor of The Herald and News asked Mayor Wright to have some one look after Newberry at this meeting and gave him several papers containing information about the project. The plan was to build from Spartanburg to Cross Anchor and via Whitmire on to Newberry. Newberry was not represented and we suppose the promoters concluded that we were indifferent and they would not bother with us. Well, we are satisfied and contented with our noble selves and of course there is no prospect of further growth so long as that state of mind exists. A few years ago, at least within the memory of some now living in Newberry, the Seaboard wanted to come this way, but we sat down and virtually said that the road is not going to be built and we don't want you any way. It went around us and is one of the great systems of the South. If you are satisfied with yourself and your town then there is no chance for further growth or development so long as that state of mind exists.

We dreamed last night, that in some way Joe Sparks was prevented from attending the press meeting at York, and as a result there was a barrel and a half of beer left over when the meeting adjourned. — Spartanburg Journal.

How in the world does a prohibitionist like Booker know there is going to be a barrel and a half of beer at the press convention. We trust he is not talking about Unit Beer. If he is it should all be left.

AS TO CANDIDATES

In the last issue we stated that we had an accident and that all the candidates cards had been knocked into pi. And that we used the list from the Observer which that paper kindly let us have. We also stated that we had printed those that were not in the Observer in another column. This latter we did not do, and for fear some may think those have dropped out we mention their names in this connection. W. B. Boinest for the legislature; Eugene S. Werts for auditor; G. G. Sale for master; S. J. D. Price for magistrate No. 2; R. W. Glymph magistrate No. 3; John W. Scott for magistrate No. 4; J. J. Murrin for magistrate No. 7; P. B. Ellison and J. A. Kinard for magistrate No. 10; Andrew G. Wicker for magistrate No. 11; Neal W. Workman for the State senate.

We hope to get them all in this issue, but if we should fail to get them up for the paper in time, will have them in the next issue.

Those candidates who desire to take advantage of our proposition to get out a candidates' issue should let us hear from them right away. It will take some time to get up such a paper and have the cuts made but it would give each candidate an opportunity to get himself before the public. Let us hear from you at once.

Wonder where Elbert Aull got two or three bales of cotton? All the cotton he raises wouldn't make a suit of B. V. D's. Jerry Gardner, by gum.—Gaffney Ledger.

We do not know what "B. V. D's Jerry Gardner" is, but, by gum we had five bales of cotton, and how we got 'em, why we grewed 'em.

We note where Elbert wants the limit kept to a dime. In this day of advanced prices we suspect it would be better to keep it down to a jitney, else the sharks might "make a killing."—Gaffney Ledger.

Come to think of it, Ed, we guess you are right. But we hope there will be no sharks at the meeting.

THE CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION
State Chairman John Gary Evans characterizes Warehouse Commissioner McLaurin as "a discredited politician seeking to carry" the State warehouse system "into politics for personal reasons," and Warehouse Commissioner McLaurin recalls that Chairman Evans has frequently been defeated for office and that once Mr. McLaurin referred to him as "the squeak of a squeedunk, trying to imitate the blast of a trumpet."

The campaign of education leading up to the selection of officers for our Grand Old State is thus auspiciously opened.—Charleston Post.

Well, it would seem that the State chairman had set the pace. The stream, you know, we have been frequently told, can not rise about the head.

If some one would just drag the road between Newberry and Columbia after the next rain it would be fine. The first six miles out from Columbia is about the roughest portion of the road. Of course, that section from Chapin to Little Mountain should be relocated. We are told there is a road that leaves Chapin out which is much better and no further. It strikes the old Buncombe road somewhere this side of Peak, and comes back into the Columbia road at Spring Hill. The section through the corporate limits of Little Mountain is bad, and some of the small bridges are almost impassable. Somebody please get busy on this road.

That is a beautiful tribute which Mr. Mullally pays to Mrs. H. C. Summers and to mothers and to woman. It is worth while to read it and paste it in your scrap book if you love beautiful sentiment. If you have been fortunate as not to realize it yet the time will come with all its force some day when you will be brought face to face with the truth of the statement contained in the epitaph which he quotes: "Everything about the house seems so different since she has gone."

The Columbia correspondent of the News and Courier states that Mr. W. A. Stuckey of Bishopville may be a candidate for governor, and that statement is made in connection with a statement that there was a conference of the friends of the State warehouse system, leaving the impression that it was decided at this conference to have Mr. Stuckey run as the champion of the State warehouse. In fact, it is stated that "it is thought the candidacy of Mr. Stuckey was discussed" at the meeting. We have the information that it was not even mentioned.

Mr. Stuckey is a nice young man and a large farmer, but he has no chance in the world of being elected governor this year. If he should enter the race he will simply waste his time and money it costs him to make the race. We believe that Mr. Stuckey is a man of too much good common sense to enter the race at this time.

Gov. Manning has been making a whirlwind campaign in Spartanburg county.

Cole. L. Blease has filed his pledge as a candidate for governor and paid his assessment so that should settle the question as to whether or not he is going to make the race.

Mr. A. H. Dagnall has filed his pledge as a candidate for congress in the third district.

We publish today the correspondence between State Chairman John Gary Evans and Senator McLaurin. In fact, the correspondence grew out of a letter from Mr. J. A. Banks as president of the State warehouse association to the State chairman asking if the committee would permit the warehouse commissioner to have a place on the program with the other candidates, and the reply of Mr. Evans is answered by Mr. McLaurin.

It seems to us that Mr. Evans is correct in not allowing the commissioner to be a candidate in the State primary after the action of the State convention, but he also went out of his way to make a personal fling at Mr. McLaurin which was altogether out of place and not germane to the subject of the letter of inquiry.

Mr. McLaurin's answer should be a plenty for the State chairman. The remarks of Mr. Graydon and Mr. Henderson in the State convention were altogether out of place and should not have been made much less quoted by Mr. Evans. Mr. McLaurin's answer is all right, but we are inclined to think that it would have been more complete if he had left off the reference to our lieutenant governor. It was not germane to the subject matter of the correspondence.

If we are not mistaken it seems to us that what Mr. Evans refers to as Mr. McLaurin's commercial Democracy is now the chief corner stone of the Democratic platform. Mr. McLaurin was just some twenty years or more ahead of his party. We can recall that when the Ocala platform was promulgated a great many of the Democrats referred to those who endorsed it as Populists. The federal reserve banking system and the warehouse system and the rural credits bill are but carrying out the principles underlying the Ocala platform. Of course, we have no doubt they are in more perfect shape, but the principle is the same. The burden of the argument of the advocates of the Ocala platform was that the government should lend money direct to the farmer on his cotton and his land.

But we can see no good in digging up the past in these matters. Conditions have changed and men change with them. If Mr. McLaurin has the proof against Mr. Evans as to what he says of him then he should not be head of the party in this State.
